Contents

VOLUME 43

SPRING-SUMMER 2001

"LIKE A BROTHER"

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction 1

Grenville Goodwin 5

Captive Children 15

Carmela 35

Jan and Grennie 53

Letters 93

The San Carlos Experience 131

An Apache Family's Day 189

An Apache Rancheria 203

Where Did They Go? 269

AUTUMN 2001

Advertising the Southwest MICHAEL E. ZEGA 281

Cornell's Field Seminar in Applied Anthropology: Social Scientists and American Indians in the Postwar Southwest WADE DAVIES 317

The Tasks of Southwestern Translation: Charles Lummis at Isleta Pueblo, 1888–1892 AUDREY GOODMAN 343

The Straw That Broke the Camel's Back: Preservation of an Urban Mountain Landscape Josh Protas 379

Economics, Ideology, and the Brick Industry in Tucson Michael W. Diehl and Allison C. Diehl 423

Flying with Ike
Chasing Birds in the Sierra Madre H. Ronald Pulliam 447
Lessons From the Master Peter Marshall 453
Bringing the Desert Bighorn Lamb Home Jean Russell 456

Death Walks in the Desert Lauro Paz 459

Winter 2001

Border Cities and Culture

Edited by Andrew G. Wood

Preface 461

The Mining Boom in Baja California from 1850 to 1890 and the Emergence of Tijuana as a Border Community Lawrence D. Taylor 463

Anticipating the Colonias: Popular Housing in El Paso and Ciudad Juárez, 1890–1923 Andrew G. Wood 493

La Cerca y Las Garitas de Ambos Nogales: A Postcard Landscape Exploration Daniel D. Arreola 505

A Note on Homosexuality in Porfirian and Postrevolutionary Northern Mexico Víctor Manuel Macías-González 543

All Night at the Owl: The Social and Political Relations of Mexicali's Red-Light District, 1913–1925 Eric Michael Schantz 549

The "Shame Suicides" and Tijuana
VINCENT CABEZA DE BACA and JUAN CABEZA DE BACA 603

Low-Budget Films for Fronterizos and Mexican Migrants in the United States
MARÍA S. ARBELÁEZ 637

Tex-Mex, Cal-Mex, New Mex, or Whose Mex? Notes on the Historical Geography of Southwestern Cuisine
JEFFREY M. PILCHER 659

U.S. Ports of Entry on the Mexican Border
JOSIAH MCC. HEYMAN 681

Slab City: Squatters' Paradise?
TRAVIS DU BRY
PHOTOGRAPHS by DOMINIQUE RISSOLO 701

Juan Soldado: Field Notes and Reflections
PAUL VANDERWOOD 717

The Oaxacan Enclaves in Los Angeles: A Photo Essay
DEVRA WEBER 729

Mike Davis, Ecology of Fear: Los Angeles and the Imagination of Disaster (New York: Metropolitan Books, 1998).
THEODORE HAMM 747

How Would You Like an El Camino? U.S. Perceptions of Mexico in Two Recent Hollywood Films
ANDREW G. WOOD 755

Volume Index 765